Financial aid at Tulane

For many students and their families, financing an education is one of the most sizable and important investments you will ever make. A Tulane degree is a valuable asset, increasing earning power in the job market as well as improving your chance of being accepted into graduate or professional school.

When education consumers take the time to examine the facts, they generally discover that a Tulane education is surprisingly affordable. Through university-funded scholarships, Tulane awarded over $160 million to undergraduates in the 2017-2018 academic year. Combine those abundant resources with federal, state, and private grants and federal loans and work-study, and it's easy to see why Tulane is much more than a valuable education, it's an educational value.

While cost is certainly an important factor in deciding which college to attend, need-based aid can make it possible for a student to attend the school of his or her choice. The need analysis formulas under federal and Tulane policies determine the amount your family is expected to contribute toward your educational costs. Financial need is the difference between the cost and the family contribution. Students with need are usually offered a combination of federal student financial aid (grant, loan or work-study) and Tulane Merit or Tulane Need-Based Scholarship funds. Students without demonstrated financial need may receive Tulane Merit-Based Scholarships or other financial aid that is not based on financial need. All students are encouraged to complete the application forms to determine first whether there is demonstrated financial need.

This booklet for students and their families provides a step-by-step guide to the financial aid process. It explains types of need-based aid available from Tulane and other sources. This booklet also describes financing sources that are not based on need for those who do not qualify for need-based aid or who are interested in additional means of financing an education. Read this information and save it for future reference. If you have questions, please contact the Financial Aid Office.

How do I apply for financial aid as a freshman or transfer student?

Some financial aid is awarded to first-time students based only on academic merit (see "Does Tulane offer 'merit only' scholarships?"). Other aid is available based on calculated financial need.

Two aid applications are required to apply for need-based Tulane Scholarship. The first application is the College Scholarship Service's (CSS) Financial Aid Profile. Tulane uses the PROFILE to determine eligibility for need-based Tulane Scholarship. Applicants should complete the 2019-20 CSS Profile application online at www.collegeboard.com (under the "Access" section click on the "College Planning" link then under "Pay for College" select the "CSS/Financial Aid Profile" link) and list Tulane as a recipient (Tulane's CSS Profile school code is 6832). Note: The CSS Profile application requires payment of a fee, however CSS has online payment options for you to use. CSS Profile filers must also provide Tulane with signed copies of parents' and student's 2017 federal income tax returns (including all schedules, attachments, and 2017 W-2 forms) before an award decision can be finalized.

The second required application is the 2019-20 Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). This FAFSA is required to determine eligibility for all federal student financial aid, including non-need-based student and parent loans. Applicants should complete and submit the FAFSA online at www.fafsa.ed.gov and list Tulane as a recipient (Tulane's FAFSA school code is 002029). Note: Students who are not U.S. citizens or eligible noncitizens do not need to complete the FAFSA. Any FAFSA selected for verification, will require submission of additional documents prior to awarding.

The suggested deadlines for completing the aforementioned aid applications and submitting necessary documents are as follows:

November 15 2018: For students applying to Tulane for Early Decision;

December 15, 2018: For students applying to Tulane for Early Action;

February 15, 2019: For incoming students (freshmen and transfers);

April 15, 2019: For all returning students.

As stated above, both the FAFSA and the PROFILE are required to be considered for Tulane Need-Based Scholarship. Applicants who file the FAFSA only will be considered for federal aid only.

Financial aid applications are reviewed after an offer of admission has been made. Applications filed after February 15 from incoming students are considered on a funds-available basis.

Some applicants may be asked for additional information to complete the review. Applicants should respond to requests for information as quickly as possible in order to be considered during the period when funds are more likely to be available.

Late applicants will be offered aid from any funds which have not been depleted. We may even continue to offer aid on a funds-available basis after the 2019-2020 academic year has begun. However, regardless of funding availability, we cease awarding need-based Tulane Scholarship funding for applications completed after March 1, 2020 (in the spring of the academic year).

How much does Tulane cost?

For purposes of determining eligibility for financial aid, the student's "cost of attendance" includes actual costs for tuition and fees, and average estimated costs for room, board, books, personal expenses, and transportation (and your actual expenses may be more or less than the average estimates used).

Tulane has developed a Net Price Calculator (NPC) to help families make informed financial decisions about the cost of education. The NPC provides an estimate of expected aid based on the accuracy of the information entered and the current underlying methodology and packaging assumptions. The actual award package will vary depending upon the time of year packaged, prevailing regulatory and institutional policy, availability of funds, actual test scores and academic information, and subjective admission analysis, as well as verifiable financial information. The NPC is intended for use by U.S. citizens or permanent residents who plan to apply to become incoming first-year students, entering in a fall semester, pursuing their first undergraduate degree and who will be enrolled full-time. It does not apply to students enrolled in Tulane's graduate, law, or medical schools, or the School of Professional Advancement. The calculator does not estimate admission, but rather provides an estimate of financial aid should the applicant receive admission.

- Tuition and fees

Tuition for the 2018-2019 academic year is $50,780. Mandatory fees for 2018-2019, which include the academic support fee, the student activity fee, the recreation center fee and the health center fee, are expected to total $4,040.

- Room and board

The estimate for room and board costs for students not living with parents or other relatives is based on the cost of a double room in a traditional residence hall plus a standard board plan. For 2018-2019, the average cost of on-campus room and board is $15,190 for freshmen and $15,856 for upper-class students. For students living at home with parents or other relatives, the estimated room and board cost for 2018-2019 is $3,326.

- Books and supplies

For undergraduates in all divisions except for Architecture, the budget for books and supplies is $1,200. For Architecture, the books and supplies budget is $1,400.

- Personal expenses

The budget for personal expenses (personal items, etc.) is estimated at $1,086 for 2018-2019. Health insurance costs are not included in the above expenses as most students are covered under their parents' policy.

- Transportation

For students outside of the New Orleans area, transportation budgets for 2018-2019 vary from $700 to $2,100. The budget is set by state of residence based on the average advance reservation airfares for two round trips home per year. For New Orleans area students living at home with parents, commuting expenses for 2018-2019 are estimated at $886.

• Freshman Resident Undergraduate Budget for 2018-2019 (not including transportation)

Tuition and fees	$54,820
Room and board	$15,190
Books and supplies	$ 1,200
Personal expense	$ 1,086
TOTAL:	$72,296 (not including transportation)

NOTE: The budgeted cost of attendance for 2019-2020 will be posted on our website by late December 2018.

What is financial aid?

Financial aid makes it possible for students whose families cannot meet full college costs (tuition, fees, room and board, transportation to and from school, books and personal expenses) to attend the college of their choice.

Sources of financial aid can be divided into three general categories: gift, loan, and employment:

- Outright gifts, which do not need to be paid back, include need-based and merit scholarships from Tulane and grants from federal, state and outside sources.
- Educational loans from federal programs and lending agencies must be repaid with interest.
- Employment is available to students on a part-time basis.

In many instances, financial assistance consists of a package made up of all three categories of aid.

Both "need" and "merit" are considered when Tulane's financial aid committee makes its decisions concerning which students are eligible for need-based Tulane Scholarship and how much scholarship they will receive. "Need" is the difference between the cost of education and the amount we calculate you and your family can afford to contribute. "Merit" is judged by your academic record. The first determination is whether your application shows you have "need" for assistance. If there is need, then "merit" determines what percentage, if any, of your package will be made up of need-based Tulane Scholarship.

In keeping with federal and university guidelines, need-based aid cannot exceed your financial need and your total aid package cannot exceed your financial aid Cost of Attendance.

Am I eligible for need-based aid?

Please do not assume you are not eligible for need-based financial aid. Although need-estimating calculators are available and may help families understand formulas used in determining financial aid eligibility, it is often difficult to know whether you will qualify for need-based financial aid until you apply. Family contributions can vary significantly depending on income, asset worth, family size, number in college, and other variables. An application allows us to determine your eligibility based on your own individual circumstances. If you are a new student, the Financial Aid Office will determine your eligibility for need-based aid after you are accepted by our Office of Undergraduate Admission. If you are currently enrolled at Tulane, you must be making satisfactory academic progress according to the standards of your division in order to be considered for need-based aid.

How is financial need determined?

Institutional need is determined using data from the College Scholarship Services (CSS) Profile application, processed by CSS, and federal need is based on the results from the FAFSA, processed by the Department of Education.

Federal need analysis methodology is mandated by law and assumes that education is a high family priority. The results of the analysis often expect a substantial financial commitment from family resources. This standardized federal need analysis allows offsets against income for federal and state taxes. It also assumes that a certain level of income is required to adequately maintain the family. Any income above that level is considered available for discretionary spending for goods or services the family chooses to purchase, including education.

The accumulation of assets - savings, investments, businesses or farms, etc. - adds to the financial strength of the family. After making an allowance for the future retirement needs of the parents, a certain portion of net assets is assumed to be available to supplement current discretionary income. The federal need analysis produces an expected family contribution towards the cost of college expenses for an academic year, and if more than one family member (other than a parent) will be attending college at least half-time, the parental portion of the contribution is divided among the family members attending college.

The process also requires that the student's resources such as outside scholarships received or other benefits, a portion of the student's assets, and a contribution of the student's income are also considered.

The U.S. Department of Education will randomly select FAFSA filers for verification of reported information. If income must be verified, then we must receive copies of the student's and parents' 2017 IRS tax transcripts. Transcripts are available at no charge from the IRS and may be requested on-line at <https://sa1.www4.irs.gov/irfof-tra/start.do>. Students whose applications are selected for further verification will be asked to verify items such as household size, number of family members in college, dependency status, nontaxable income, value of personal and business assets, or other information (such as copies of business tax returns) used to determine need.

Institutional need analysis methodology is used to determine eligibility for Tulane need-based financial aid. Both the CSS Profile and FAFSA are reviewed, and Tulane reviews each application individually so that we may take into consideration allowable special family circumstances. Also, in an attempt to allocate Tulane's financial aid resources equitably, we follow certain established policies which may dictate our adjusting the family contribution as calculated under the federal formula.

- Student and parent assets, including home equity, are counted for purposes of awarding need-based Tulane Scholarship, even though the federal formula excludes home equity and other assets in certain circumstances.
- Parents attending college are not included in the division of the parental contribution under the federal or the institutional formula. While the federal formula allows inclusion of siblings who are 24 years old or older or who are in graduate school in the number attending college if your parents provide more than half of their support, Tulane's policy is to include only undergraduate students who are younger than 24 in the division of the parental contribution. You may tell us the amount of unreimbursed tuition your parent will pay, and we may consider a portion of this amount as an additional allowance against parental income. Unreimbursed tuition is what your parent will pay for courses minus any waivers, financial aid, or amounts paid by an employer.
- If your parents are divorced or separated, we require financial information from your non-custodial parent for the purpose of determining if there should be a contribution from that parent as well as from the parent with whom you live. There are no exceptions to this policy unless the family can document through an independent third party that the whereabouts of the non-custodial parent cannot be determined.
- If your parents own or have interest in a business/partnership, the net value is considered in both federal and institutional methodology. For the federal methodology, however, only businesses that employ more than 100 people will be considered in determining your parents' assets. Parents are required to complete a CSS Business-Farm Supplement form and submit complete copies of federal business tax returns or schedules. We may, on occasion, ask for additional data such as financial statements or other documents in order to gain a better understanding of the financial condition of businesses and partnerships.

As part of our need-based scholarship evaluation process we ask for validation of financial information by requesting copies of the student's and parents' 2017 federal tax returns and copies of the student's and parents' 2017 W-2 forms. Validation is only required for students seeking need-based Tulane Scholarship.

Entering applicants and their families are asked to fill out the 2019-2020 CSS Profile and 2019-2020 FAFSA forms from completed 2017 tax returns. Once the CSS Profile is submitted, please submit signed copies of student's and parents' 2017 federal tax returns and copies of student's and parents' 2017 W-2 forms. Once all requested documents are collected, your application will be considered complete. Since we validate family income and asset information for all applicants awarded need-based Tulane Scholarship, providing the most accurate data possible on your CSS Profile and FAFSA forms decreases the likelihood of changes to your need analysis during the validation process. If there are substantial discrepancies in the information provided on the application materials and the validation documents, we must revise the need analysis accordingly.

Am I financially dependent on my parents?

Virtually all undergraduate students are considered to be dependent on their parents under both university and federal guidelines. Tulane's policy in awarding our need-based scholarship funds is that an undergraduate student is dependent and must provide parental data unless he or she is an orphan or ward of the court with no legal guardian. Financial information is required from legal guardians of students.

For federal student aid programs, Tulane follows the definition of an independent student as set by the United States Congress. Under this definition, an undergraduate student is considered independent if he or she meets one of the following criteria (documentation may be required):

- is born before January 1, 1996.
- since turning age 13, was in foster care, a ward or dependent of the court and/or an orphan (both parents deceased);
- is a veteran of the United States armed forces;
- is currently serving on active duty in the U.S. Armed Forces for purposes other than training;
- is married;
- has legal dependents other than a spouse;
- is a student for whom a financial aid administrator determines and documents the student's independent status on the basis of unusual circumstances. The student must document that parental support is not available because of serious extenuating circumstances (such as abandonment or abuse) that make the parent unable to provide support, and/or provide documentation of being in legal guardianship, an emancipated minor, or an unaccompanied homeless youth.

What information is required if my parents are divorced or separated?

Another concern you may have is how to file for financial aid if your parents are divorced or separated. According to federal guidelines, if your parents are divorced or separated, the parent with whom you are living more during the past twelve months should fill out your FAFSA, even though your other parent may also be providing support. The parent with whom you live also should complete the CSS Profile. If the parent with whom you live has remarried, income and asset information about your stepparent also must be reported, regardless of any agreement between your biological parents and your stepparent concerning your education. To be considered for Tulane-controlled funds, information from your non-custodial parent is required.

The parent completing the CSS Profile must provide all requested information about the non-custodial parent, including current address. If for any reason you cannot fully complete the information, please explain the circumstances completely in the Explanations/Special Circumstances section of the CSS Profile. We will require that your non-custodial parent complete the College Scholarship Service's Noncustodial Profile (NCP) which can be found with the CSS Profile on the website at www.collegeboard.com. If your non-custodial parent is not able to provide the NCP information, we unfortunately will not be able to consider you for need-based Tulane Scholarship. There are no exceptions to this policy unless you can provide documentation from an independent third party (such as clergy or government agency) that it is not possible to obtain the information. Unless there are special circumstances, Tulane will use the NCP to determine whether a contribution from your non-custodial parent will be expected to pay part of your educational costs. Both parents are expected to assist with your education if they are financially able to do so.

Will my need change if there is a change in my family members attending college?

YES. The number of persons in your household who attend college is one of the most critical factors in the need analysis formula. It can significantly affect the expected contribution because the parental contribution is adjusted depending on the number of dependents in their household who attend college at least half-time. Parents attending college are not included in the number in the household who attend college. This policy recognizes that a parent attending college normally does not have the same expenses as a dependent undergraduate student.

For purposes of determining need-based Tulane Scholarship, only undergraduate students who are less than 24 years of age and planning to attend college at least half-time during the 2019-2020 school year will be counted in the number of a family attending college. Tulane verifies sibling enrollment during the 2019 fall semester, and will adjust awards at mid-year if verification is incomplete or fails to match expectations.

IMPORTANT: Need-based Tulane Scholarship will be adjusted if all reported students are not enrolled at least half-time for at least one term of the 2019-2020 school year. Families should expect a change, sometimes a very significant change, in the parent contribution if a sibling graduates from an undergraduate program or does not re-enroll from one year to the next. If a parent supports a sibling in graduate school, the sibling can be included in the number attending college for purposes of awarding federal aid; however, for purposes of awarding need-based Tulane Scholarship, siblings in graduate school are not included in the division of the parental contribution. This policy recognizes that graduate students are considered independent in applying for federal aid and have access to other aid sources. However, a parent may report to our office the actual tuition paid, less any waivers, financial aid, or employer reimbursement, and a portion of this amount may be taken into consideration.

I am not a U.S. citizen or permanent resident: am I eligible for financial aid?

Although we cannot offer you assistance from any program funded by the United States government, you can be considered for need-based Tulane Scholarship. For students who meet the "need" and "merit" requirements, we may be able to offer up to $23,000 in scholarship. Note: This $23,000 cap includes any and all institutional grants/scholarships offered (example: includes merit scholarship offerings, thus if a merit award exceeds of $23,000, then no additional scholarship will be offered). Any remaining need must be provided by family or other resources.

International students wanting to apply for need-based Tulane Scholarship should complete the 2018-2019 College Scholarship Service's (CSS) Financial Aid Profile application online at www.collegeboard.com (under the College Planning link follow the "Pay for College" link) and list Tulane as a recipient (Tulane's CSS Profile school code is 6832). Note: The CSS Profile application requires payment of a fee, however CSS has online payment options for you to use.

The suggested deadlines for international students to complete the CSS Profile are as follows:

- November 15 2018: For students applying to Tulane for Early Decision;
- December 15, 2018: For students applying to Tulane for Early Action;
- February 15, 2019: For incoming students (freshmen and transfers);
- April 15, 2019: For all returning students.

How do I apply for need-based aid as a returning student?

Students who are currently receiving or wish to be considered for receipt of need-based Tulane Scholarship should complete both the 2019-2020 Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) and the 2019-2020 College Scholarship Service's (CSS) Profile. Students seeking to only apply for federal aid (either to supplement merit aid or only receive federal aid, including federal parent loans) and who do not wish to pursue need-based Tulane Scholarship consideration need only to complete a FAFSA.

A 2019-2020 FAFSA and any additional documentation requirements must be completed for a student to have 2019-2020 federal aid eligibility determined by the school. The FAFSA should be completed by April 15, 2019 at the latest in order to have additional documentation requirements identified and/or federal eligibility determined before the 2019-2020 academic year begins, but in all cases, the FAFSA must be received and any additional requirement documentation satisfied prior to the processing deadline (which is four weeks before the end of the academic term for which aid is intended or the student's last date of attendance, whichever comes first) to allow sufficient time for review, award and certification of federal aid eligibility. You are responsible for monitoring documentation requirements made in addition to the FAFSA (requirements are posted online and may be viewed through Tulane's Gibson portal). Please understand that if federal aid is ultimately used to pay all or a portion of your University charges for the academic year, your completion of the FAFSA and/or satisfying additional requirement documentation late (that is, shortly before or after the academic year is underway) may result in your assessment of finance charges by the University.

Since the 2019-2020 FAFSA will be asking for 2017 federal income data you and your parents may be able to take advantage of the IRS tax data retrieval option when completing the FAFSA. Using the IRS tax retrieval option on the FAFSA and/or using data directly from your actual 2017 federal income tax returns will make completion of the forms easier and will mean fewer corrections during processing of your needs analysis. Please complete your applications no later than April 15, 2019.

You must complete both forms (CSS Profile and FAFSA) to be considered for both Tulane and federal need-based aid. Complete all sections of each form to prevent delays which may in turn prevent you from being considered for certain aid. Be sure to list Tulane as a school to receive your FAFSA (Tulane's federal school code number is 002029). Complete the forms so that results will arrive at Tulane by our returning student April 15, 2019 deadline.

The Office of Financial Aid will also request copies of your and your parents' 2017 federal tax returns and copies of your and your parents' 2017 W-2 forms once you have completed the CSS Profile. Files are not considered complete until all required tax documents, including all W-2 forms, are received.

As noted in the section "How is financial need determined?" you may be asked to verify and/or provide additional information concerning your aid application(s). To assure that returning students are available for our maximum level of funding, you are urged to complete your applications by April 15, 2019 at the latest. An application for need-based Tulane Scholarship is not complete until we have received your CSS Profile, FAFSA, parent and student 2017 federal tax returns (including all 2017 W-2 forms) and other verification documents as required.

Returning students should make every effort to complete their applications by the April 15, 2019 deadline. Your application will not be reviewed until all required documents are received. Aid will be awarded on a funds-available basis at the time the application is considered complete. We continue to offer aid on a funds-available basis after the 2019-2020 academic year has begun; however, applications completed after March 1, 2020 (that is, during the spring semester of the academic year underway) or after a student has ceased attendance, whichever comes first, will not be considered for need-based Tulane Scholarship funding.

If I have need, what types of aid are available to me?

Several types of aid are available to students who are determined to have financial need. Some funds are awarded directly from Tulane; others are awarded through non-Tulane sources. Scholarships and grants do not have to be repaid; loans do. To apply for all of the need-based aid described in this section, both Tulane aid and federal aid, you must complete both the CSS Profile and the FAFSA.

- Need-Based Tulane Scholarships are awarded to full-time students in regular degree programs in the Undergraduate College, the School of Liberal Arts, the School of Science and Engineering, the School of Architecture, the School of Public Health, and the A. B. Freeman School of Business and being charged tuition at the standard rate. Students enrolling in the School of Professional Advancement should see “As a Professional Advancement student, what types of aid are available to me?” By applying for financial aid through the CSS Profile and FAFSA and then providing documentation to complete your file, you will be considered for need-based Tulane Scholarship. Please note that need-based Tulane Scholarship will be reduced if and when other gift aid is added, with very few exceptions (for example, Tulane Valedictorian Scholarship and Tulane Band Scholarship). Need-based Tulane Scholarship is offered on the basis of both financial need and academic merit: if need exists at the point of packaging or re-packaging, merit determines the proportion of scholarship, if any, of the package to be made up of need-based Tulane Scholarship. Your total financial aid package, including need-based Tulane Scholarship, cannot exceed Cost of Attendance. Your need-based scholarship cannot exceed Cost of Attendance less institutional Expected Family Contribution and less other gift aid (whether the other gift aid was present before or after the need-based scholarship was packaged). If need-based Tulane Scholarship is packaged before the receipt of all information required to accurately determine your financial need (such as income and asset information as well as the total amounts of gift aid and resources) then your award will not be considered final. Receipt of gift aid reduces financial need. Your receipt of all gift aid is one piece of information required to accurately determine your financial aid and therefore must be included in your package before we can determine the final amount of your financial need and thus the amount of your final need-based Tulane Scholarship.

Continuing students must enroll full-time in an undergraduate division excluding the School of Professional Advancement and maintain a cumulative grade point average of at least 2.300 to be considered for need-based Tulane Scholarship. For more details regarding the academic requirements for retaining need-based Tulane Scholarship, please refer to the Appendix. A student is expected to graduate within the normal number of semesters required for the program in which he or she is enrolled (eight in the Newcomb-Tulane College, Schools of Liberal Arts, Science and Engineering, Business, Public Health, or ten in Architecture). Our policy is to consider applicants for need-based Tulane Scholarship only for the required number of semesters in any given program, whether or not a student enrolls for semesters in another curriculum and/or enrolls for semesters during which no need-based Tulane Scholarship was received. In unusual circumstances, we may consider up to two additional semesters of eligibility.

To be eligible for the following federal student financial aid programs described in this section, students must be United States citizens or eligible noncitizens. They must be enrolled in a degree-seeking program. They must not be in default on a prior educational loan or owe a repayment on a federal grant. If male, they must be registered with Selective Service (if required to register). Continuing students must be meeting satisfactory academic progress standards as set for the student’s division of enrollment. Other specific requirements are noted in the description of each type of aid.

Funding for much of Tulane’s need-based scholarships is made possible through the generosity of Tulane alumni and friends. If asked, we hope that recipients will be willing to acknowledge the donor with a brief thank you letter.

- Tulane’s No Loan Assistance (NOLA)

Full-time freshmen entering fall 2019 and showing parental adjusted gross income (AGI on the 2017 custodial parents’ federal tax return) being equal to or less than $75,000 will be reviewed for Tulane’s No Loan Assistance (NOLA) if the aid applications (including both the FAFSA and PROFILE) are submitted to be processed by February 15, 2019. Use estimated tax figures if actual figures are not yet available; however, aid may change if actual figures vary from the estimates. The NOLA scholarship will be added if gift aid* plus Tulane’s Institutional Methodology Expected Family Contribution (IM EFC) does not total at least the tuition, fees, books, and transportation components of the student's standard Cost of Attendance, in an amount to make up the difference.

Please note that NOLA is awarded based on information on hand and will be reduced if additional information for the student's financial aid file results in an IM EFC increase, and/or non-NOLA gift aid is added or increased or is found to be higher than was included in earlier evaluations, and/or 2017 IRS tax transcript AGI for custodial parents becomes larger than $75,000.

Gift aid includes, but is not limited to any scholarship received from Tulane or ROTC or other sources, tuition waiver, tuition exchange and/or any discount to full-time tuition or rebate of tuition; however, for the purposes of NOLA, Tulane will exclude Louisiana GO Grant and Louisiana TOPS from the gift aid total.*

IM EFC varies according to a myriad of factors (i.e., earnings, assets, non-custodial parent contribution, number in family, children in college, state of permanent residence, age of parents, etc.), and therefore families with identical adjusted gross incomes will rarely have identical IM EFC's. The Expected Family Contribution is not an evaluation of current disposable income, but rather reflects an analysis of what the family should have available to contribute towards the student's upcoming annual educational costs.*

NOLA recipients will be reviewed for continuation of NOLA eligibility for subsequent academic years provided the student applies for financial aid on or before the April 15 preceding each academic year, maintains at least a 2.300 cumulative grade point average, and maintains full-time (at least 12 hours each fall or spring semester) undergraduate enrollment. Exception: graduating seniors in a final semester of a program may receive NOLA scholarship funds if enrolled less than full-time, although the NOLA award will be adjusted to reflect actual tuition and fee charges. Exception: A student who is otherwise eligible to receive Tulane need-based scholarship, including NOLA, may be awarded a conditional semester of scholarship under limited circumstances; see "Conditional Year" discussion within the Tulane Scholarship section for more details.

- Federal Pell Grants are awarded each year by the federal government to Tulane students whose expected family contribution is below the cutoff set by the federal government. Only students working toward a first bachelor's degree are eligible. The annual Federal Pell Grant award in 2018-2019 to full-time students enrolled in full-time divisions at Tulane will range from $652 to $6,095, depending on the expected family contribution.
- Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants are federal grants awarded by Tulane to financially needy students each year (defined as students who are eligible for a Federal Pell Grant). Grants often range from $100 to $1,000. Only students working toward a first bachelor's degree are eligible.
- Federal Direct Loans are offered to eligible students regardless of need. The student borrower must be enrolled at least half-time. Tulane undergraduate students must take at least six credit hours to be considered enrolled at least half-time. If a student has financial need, a Federal Direct Subsidized Loan will be offered. If you are offered a Subsidized loan, the interest on the loan while you are enrolled at least half-time is paid by the federal government. Annual loan limits for Federal Direct Subsidized Loans are $3,500 for the freshman year, $4,500 for the sophomore year, and $5,500 per year for the remaining undergraduate years, with an aggregate maximum of $31,000 for the entire undergraduate career, with no more than $23,000 in Federal Direct Subsidized Loans. Total Federal Direct Subsidized Loans cannot exceed $65,500.

For students who have financial need, Tulane normally includes an assumed amount of Federal Direct Subsidized and Unsubsidized Loan in its package of aid to meet need. The Federal need analysis formula is used to determine need for a Federal Direct Subsidized Loan. See "How is financial need determined?"

Although need is not a criteria for a Federal Direct Unsubsidized Loan, we are required to determine that a student is not eligible for a need-based loan before we can offer an unsubsidized loan. Therefore, students applying for unsubsidized loans must complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

In addition to the FAFSA, you will need to complete a Federal Direct Loan Master Promissory note/application (MPN) to obtain Federal Direct Loan funding for the first time. Instructions for completing a MPN are available on the Financial Aid Office website.

Undergraduate students may borrow a combination of subsidized and unsubsidized Federal Direct Loan not to exceed the annual limits of:

- $5,500 for freshman
- $6,500 for sophomores
- $7,500 for juniors and seniors

Undergraduate students who are considered “independent” under federal criteria may borrow additional amounts of Unsubsidized Federal Direct Loans. Independent students may borrow a combination of subsidized and unsubsidized loans up to the above limits plus additional unsubsidized loans up to the following annual limits:

- $4,000 for freshman and sophomores
- $5,000 for juniors and seniors

The aggregate limit for all undergraduate study for these independent students is $57,500 with no more than $23,000 in Federal Direct Subsidized Loans. The total-amount borrowed for undergraduate and graduate education cannot exceed $138,500 with no more than $65,500 in Subsidized Federal Direct Loans.

Repayment for Federal Direct Subsidized or Unsubsidized Loans begins six months (known as a grace period) after the borrower is no longer enrolled at least half-time. A default fee of up to 1 percent origination fee will be deducted from the face value of the loan, currently modified by Congress sequestration (for example, the fee is up to 1.062% for the period from 10/1/2018 till 9/30/2019).

New changes in the Federal Direct Loan program took effect July 1, 2013, establishing interest rates for undergraduates to be based on an index rate (10-Year U.S. Treasury Note Index) plus a 2.05% add-on.

Undergraduate Federal Direct Subsidized and Unsubsidized Loans disbursed between 7/1/18 and 6/30/19 have a total fixed interest rate for the life of the loan of 5.05%. Each year new Federal Direct Loans will have a new fixed interest rate dependent on the prevailing index rate. Federal Direct Stafford Loans have an interest rate cap of 8.25%

- Federal Work Study (FWS) is a federally sponsored part-time employment program offered on the basis of need to Tulane students each year. Once a student accepts federal work study offered in their financial aid package, it is their responsibility to locate a job through the Student Employment Team’s website or after consultation with a representative from the Tulane Student Employment Office (504.865.5280; representatives available weekdays 8:30 am – 5:00 pm University Square) to secure a position. A FWS award does not guarantee employment. Positions are usually on campus in one of the university's many departments, but may also be in the nearby community. A variety of community service opportunities are available for work study students. Most students work about 10 to 15 hours a week and are paid at least the federal minimum wage. Students are paid biweekly for hours worked as net earnings are directly deposited into the student’s chosen bank account (not the Tulane Accounts Receivable student account). The work schedule can vary from free periods during the day to night or weekend work; however, students are not allowed to work during periods of their respective scheduled class times.
- Louisiana GO Grant is a need-based scholarship program funded by the state of Louisiana. The maximum amount of Louisiana GO Grant is $2,000 per year. Tulane recipients show Louisiana as their permanent state of residence on the FAFSA and have been awarded a Federal Pell Grant, and because Louisiana GO Grant funding is limited, additional requirements for receipt are imposed each semester. The current additional requirements for receipt of the Louisiana GO Grant may be found on the Tulane Financial Aid website and the Louisiana Office of Student Financial Assistance website www.osfa.la.gov/go_grant.html.

As a student in the School of Professional Advancement, what types of aid are available to me?

The School of Professional Advancement (SOPA) serves the needs and interests of non-traditional students, most of whom are part-time. If you are enrolled for at least 12 hours per semester, you are eligible to be considered for a full Federal Pell Grant. If you are enrolled for fewer than 12 hours, you are eligible to be considered for a partial Federal Pell Grant. You may also apply for a Federal Direct Subsidized and Unsubsidized Loan if you are enrolled for at least 6 hours. Depending on your need and the availability of funds an award of Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants may be offered to you. Students should complete and send the 2019-20 FAFSA application by April 15, 2019. While the School of Professional Advancement offers their own scholarships, SOPA students are not eligible for need-based Tulane Scholarships or merit scholarships.

Special information is available from the Financial Aid Office for students who enroll in the School of Professional Advancement.

How do I find out if I will be awarded need-based Tulane Scholarship?

Prior to awarding any need-based Tulane Scholarship, a student must have completed the CSS Profile, FAFSA (except non U.S. citizens and/orineligible noncitizens), and have submitted all required documents, including copies of parent 2017 federal income tax returns, AND have been offered admission.

Assuming that you have successfully met all of the aforementioned criteria by the deadlines shown below, then you will be notified of your award as per the following schedule:

If you are a freshman applying Early Decision, who has met the November 15, 2018 deadline, then you will hear from the Financial Aid Office starting the week of 12/17/2018.

If you are a freshman applying Early Action, who has met the December 15, 2018 deadline, then you will hear from the Financial Aid Office starting the week of 1/21/2019.

If you are a freshmen and/or transfer student who has met the February 15, 2019 deadline, then you will hear from the Financial Aid Office starting the week of 3/11/2019.

We expect all incoming applicants will be notified of their awards no later than April 1, 2019.

If you are a returning student who has met the April 15, 2019 deadline, then you will hear from the Financial Aid Office starting the week of 6/25/2019.

If your aid application is completed after our deadlines, your application will be considered if funds are available. Your notification information will list any offer of tentative aid and will explain details relating to student and family rights and responsibilities. Because some funds may be depleted, financial aid packages for late applicants may not be as attractive as those for students who filed their applications by the deadline.

How do I accept my financial aid offer?

Log onto Tulane's "Gibson Online" system, click "Financial Aid," on the left side click "Award Information, Terms and Conditions, Special Messages." Choose the correct aid year, click "Terms and Conditions," read and press the "Accept" button at the bottom, click "Accept Award Offer" and make acceptance decisions. Freshmen should accept aid offers by May 1, the candidate's reply date for admission. Note to all incoming students: for your financial aid acceptance to be official, you must have also accepted the offer of admission and paid the required deposit by May 1, 2019.

Currently enrolled students should accept their financial aid online within two weeks of the date of the award notification.

Will my need-based financial aid be affected if I receive assistance from outside sources?

Some students receive assistance from outside sources, such as a scholarship from a club or organization. If you have been offered aid to meet your need and you receive additional outside assistance, federal regulations require that your aid must be adjusted so that your need is not over-met. Every effort will be made to make any required adjustments from self-help funds (loans and/or work study), but in some cases, Tulane scholarship may be adjusted.

Does Tulane offer "merit only" scholarships (that is, scholarships not based on need)?

The university offers a number of scholarships based entirely on academic merit as demonstrated in the admission application in light of the current applicant pool and available funding. These scholarships are offered only to entering freshmen or to qualified transfer students upon admission to the university by the admission office. In addition, Tulane provides several scholarships on the basis of merit in combination with other non-need considerations.

Students receiving these types of scholarships who seek additional Tulane need-based financial aid must complete both the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) and the College Scholarship Service's (CSS) Profile applications. Students receiving these types of scholarships who seek only federal aid must complete only the FAFSA.

Tulane scholarships are in a large part made possible through the generosity of donors to the University, and a recipient's Tulane scholarship may be partially funded through a specific donor's contribution.

With very few exceptions, students awarded more than one Tulane scholarship may not combine the scholarships, and Tulane scholarships, faculty/staff tuition waiver, Tuition Exchange scholarship and/or Reserved Officer Training Corps (ROTC) scholarship cannot be combined. The exceptions include Tulane Valedictorian Scholarship, Band Scholarship and adjusted need-based Tulane Scholarship (that is, scholarship which has been adjusted in light of all other aid).

Students suspended from the university for honor or disciplinary violations will forfeit all remaining portions of any university scholarship they have been offered.

- Stamps Tulane Scholarships are awarded each year through generous funding by the Stamps Family Charitable Foundation and dollar-for-dollar matching by Tulane University to approximately 5 exceptional new freshmen who exemplify leadership, perseverance, scholarship, service, and innovation. As Tulane's most prestigious merit award the scholarship covers Tulane's specified total costs of attendance for four years of undergraduate study (five for architecture). In addition, Stamps Tulane Scholars are able to use additional enrichment funds to support endeavors such as study abroad, undergraduate research, academic or co-curricular conferences, and unpaid internships. Applicants must apply for the Deans' Honors Scholarship (see below) by December 5 AND submit an Early Action or Single Choice Early Action admission application by November 15. No separate application is required. The scholarships are renewable provided the student maintains a 3.00 cumulative grade point average with a full-time load, maintains continuous enrollment without interruption at Tulane University, and upholds the standards of the Code of Academic Conduct and Code of Student Conduct.

- Phi Theta Kappa Achievement Awards were offered to two-year college graduates entering Tulane as members of Phi Theta Kappa. The award is valued at $10,000. The awards are renewable through the receipt of the baccalaureate degree for a maximum of 4 years (5 years for Architecture students) if the recipient maintains a minimum 2.7 grade point average on a full-time load for all courses taken at Tulane University in a full time division.

- Legislative Scholarships are full-tuition, one-year scholarships funded by Tulane in accordance with Louisiana State law. Each state legislator may nominate one student per year. Applicants must be residents of and legally domiciled in Louisiana, graduates of Louisiana high schools, and be enrolled in or admitted into Newcomb-Tulane College as a full-time undergraduate degree-seeking students. All Louisiana students admitted into Newcomb-Tulane College as full time undergraduate degree-seeking students are automatically eligible for the Legislative Scholarship Program, upon completion and return of the Legislative Scholarship Program Form, in accordance with procedures described on the Form, which is provided each spring. If you have any questions about the Legislative Scholarship Program, please contact Tulane's Office of Government and Community Relations at 504.988.3393.

A student who declines a Tulane merit-based scholarship to accept a Legislative Scholarship must understand that the merit scholarship cannot be reinstated in a subsequent academic period once it is forfeited unless the student has maintained all original requirements associated with the Tulane merit-based scholarship and submits a written request for reinstatement directly to their Financial Aid Counselor which is subsequently approved by the Associate Vice President of Financial Aid.

The receipt of Legislative Scholarship will affect athletic scholarship. Please contact Tulane's Athletic Compliance Office for more information at 504.862.8242.

- Mayoral Scholarships are full-tuition, four-year scholarships offered each year to five students who are residents of Orleans Parish and are graduates of New Orleans high schools. Applicants must demonstrate outstanding academic performance, leadership ability and financial need. Candidates for the Mayoral Scholarship must submit by January 15 an application for admission to Tulane as a full-time degree-seeking undergraduate student, the Mayoral Scholarship application form, and the FAFSA. Recipients must maintain a 2.30 or higher GPA on a full-time course load in a full-time Tulane division to remain eligible for the scholarship.
- Taylor Opportunity Program for Students (TOPS) is a scholarship program funded by the State of Louisiana; therefore the State of Louisiana determines whether adequate funding exists to meet their scheduled award obligations. Students who have been Louisiana residents for at least two years and have graduated from a Louisiana high school are eligible to apply for TOPS. Applicants must meet the current eligibility criteria as specified by the State of Louisiana. In prior years, the maximum award at Tulane is the average Louisiana public college tuition and may include a stipend for students with higher grade point averages and/or ACT scores, however funding levels are always established by the State based on their available level of funding. For students receiving other forms of aid, the full value of the TOPS award can be applied to other expenses as long as the total amount of aid does not exceed the cost of attendance. Applicants must complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) by the state's specified deadline. Contact the Louisiana Office of Student Financial Assistance at P.O. Box 91202, Baton Rouge, LA 70821-9202 or call (800) 259-5626, Ext. 1012 for additional information. Funding levels are determined by the State of Louisiana based on available funding, and if funding shortfalls occur, we regret that Tulane University is unable to make up the deficit.
- Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) Scholarships in each branch of the armed forces provide full or partial tuition, fees, book expenses, and a monthly stipend allowance. Students completing this program are commissioned as officers upon graduation. Assistance is provided to cover the room and board expenses for some ROTC scholarship recipients by the Tulane Cooperative Room and Board Scholarship. Students who are offered both a Tulane tuition scholarship and an ROTC scholarship must choose which scholarship is most advantageous to them. A student who declines a Tulane merit-based scholarship such as a Distinguished Scholars Award or a Founders Scholarship to accept an ROTC scholarship must understand that the Tulane merit scholarship cannot be reinstated in a subsequent academic period once it is forfeited unless the student has maintained all original requirements associated with the Tulane merit scholarship and submits a written request for reinstatement directly to their financial aid counselor, and the request is approved by the Associate Vice President of Financial Aid. For more information, contact the commanding officer at Tulane for the particular service in which you are interested.

- Athletic Scholarships are available for men in baseball, basketball, cross-country, track & field, tennis and football, and for women in basketball, cross-country, track & field, golf, tennis, swimming/diving and volleyball. Scholarships are sometimes available for team managers and trainers. Please note that the receipt of need-based Tulane Scholarship will affect athletic scholarship. Please contact Tulane’s Athletic Compliance Office for more information at 504.862.8242.
- Band Scholarships and Musicianship Awards are partial scholarships awarded through the admission office and based on musical talent. The scholarships are renewable for four years (or five for Architecture) provided the recipients participate in the band or musical program as required by the band or musical director, maintain at least a 2.700 cumulative GPA with continuous full time enrollment in a full-time division and adherence to the standards of the Code of Academic Conduct.

How will I receive my financial aid?

Financial aid offers are based on students’ need for assistance to meet educational expenses. These funds supplement your family's contributions towards meeting these costs. You are billed by the University for tuition, fees, room (if you will live on campus) and board (if you have chosen a meal plan). Other expenses, such as books, transportation, miscellaneous (and room and/or board if you choose not to live or eat on campus) are estimates of costs. Your actual costs may be higher or lower.

Because each student’s costs and aid offers will vary, the expected family contribution that is calculated to determine financial need should not be considered the “bottom line” amount that your family will pay. To determine more accurately what your family will pay for each semester, add your charges (tuition, fees, room, and board) for the semester plus your estimate of your other expenses, then subtract the financial aid that will be credited or earned for that semester.

Once you accept your financial aid offer institutional scholarships (such as need-based Tulane Scholarship and/or Tulane merit scholarship) will be credited directly to your Tulane student account when you confirm registration. If the required processing for a Federal Pell Grant and/or Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant has been completed, then these funds will be credited to your account just prior to the start of the semester once your registration is confirmed. TOPS scholarships are credited if and when the funds are received from the State.

If you receive a Federal Direct Loan, funds will be applied directly to Tulane each semester for the amount borrowed minus any loan fees. Students applying for their first Federal Direct Loan are required to complete a Federal Direct Master Promissory Note. Students applying for their first Federal Direct Loan are required by law to complete “entrance” counseling. We encourage students to complete this session online.

Tulane has made arrangements with streamlined private loan lenders to transmit loan funds electronically to be credited to your Tulane Accounts Receivable student account. Some private loan lenders may send loan funds as a check made payable to you and to Tulane. If your funds are disbursed by check, you must endorse the check at the Accounts Receivable Office to be credited to your account. To pick up a check, you must present a Tulane I.D. card and a driver's license. If you don't have a driver's license, be sure to have another type of picture I.D. with you.

Funds are credited and checks are released after registration is confirmed and all other requirements have been met.

Because financial aid has multiple funding sources, different types of aid will be delivered at different points in time. If you have any questions regarding the actual credits of your financial aid in your accounts receivable account, you should contact our office.

If your credited financial aid exceeds the charges on your bill, the resulting “credit balance” can be refunded for your other educational expenses. If you complete a Release of Title IV Funds form for the Accounts Receivable Office, federal loans may be used to pay charges on your Tulane account which are not tuition, room or meal plan charges (for example, bookstore charges). Otherwise, funds may be released to you that you may subsequently use to pay other Tulane charges.

Students who work in the Federal Work Study (FWS) program are paid biweekly for the amount that they have earned via direct deposit into a bank account they have chosen (not their Tulane Accounts Receivable student account). If awarded FWS, you should explore student job opportunities on the HireTulane.com website and consult with a Student Employment Office representative when you arrive on campus (phone 504.865.5147; representatives are available weekdays 8:30 am – 5:00 pm in Diboll Complex and at University Square). Because the interview and job placement process takes time, it may not be possible to begin FWS employment within the first or two weeks of classes. You should plan to have sufficient funds available to meet personal expenses until you receive your first paycheck.

By law, funds from any of the federal or state programs listed above (except FWS, which can in some cases be certified for a semester preceding a semester of enrollment) can be credited or released to you only during a semester while you are enrolled, in attendance, and are meeting all program requirements. If you are subsequently found to be ineligible, funds will be returned to the federal program funding source, and you are responsible for repaying Tulane if Tulane returns the funding on your behalf.

Is my financial aid renewable?

Your financial need must be re-evaluated each year for need-based aid. Your family is asked to complete a CSS Profile and a FAFSA, and you and your parents are asked to submit copies of IRS tax returns each year so that we can determine your need for aid. See "How do I apply for need-based aid as a returning student?"

Tulane University feels a special commitment to continue financial assistance to students who:

1. enter Tulane on need-based aid,
2. complete the applications for aid by the deadline,
3. continue to have financial need,
4. meet academic standards for scholarship and federal aid.

As noted previously, your total package of need-based aid (including need-based Tulane Scholarship, federal grants, outside scholarships, need-based loans, and employment) cannot exceed the total amount of need. If you complete the application process by the deadlines, continue to have need, and meet academic standards, you will receive need-based financial aid throughout the normal period of undergraduate studies (four years, or five in the case of Architecture students).

Are there other options if I don't qualify for need-based aid?

For those who are not seeking or are ineligible for need-based financial aid, Tulane provides access to a variety of student and parent loan programs and payment plans. These options are sometimes also available to families who are receiving need-based aid and who are interested in additional means of financing the parental contribution. Total aid packages, however, may never exceed the cost of attending Tulane, and students must meet enrollment requirements and must be in good academic standing to receive financial aid.

• Unsubsidized Federal Direct Loans

are available to certain students who meet federal requirements described elsewhere in the brochure, and are enrolled at least half-time, regardless of need. Tulane undergraduate students must take at least six credit hours to be considered enrolled at least half-time. A student must complete a Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) because we are required to determine if you are eligible for a Federal Direct Subsidized Loan first. See "How do I apply for aid as a freshman or transfer student?" or "How do I apply for need-based aid as a returning student?" An Federal Direct Unsubsidized Loan is similar to a Federal Direct Subsidized Loan except that the interest rate is slightly higher and the student is responsible for paying the interest accrued on the loan while in school. Interest in school is deferred and is capitalized at repayment.

The regulations regarding maximum loan limits and eligibility requirements (other than demonstrating need) are the same as for the Federal Direct Subsidized Loans. You may request a deferment as long as you are enrolled at least half-time. Information for completing a Federal Direct Loan master promissory note (MPN) is available on the Tulane Financial Aid Office's website.

- The Federal Direct Parent PLUS Loan is designed to assist parents who need additional educational financing. Qualifying parents can borrow Direct PLUS up to the student's cost of education minus all other financial aid. Loan approval is based on the absence of adverse credit. Parent loans are available to a parent whose child is pursuing a degree program at Tulane University, enrolled at least half-time, and is maintaining Satisfactory Academic Progress (please refer to the Satisfactory Academic Progress information in the Appendix). Tulane undergraduate students must take at least six credit hours to be considered enrolled at least half-time. In addition, the parent and student must have completed the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). Borrowers and students must be United States citizens or permanent residents. The parent cannot be in default on any educational loan made to attend any institution nor can they owe a refund on a grant received to attend any institution. The student must be registered with Selective Service (if required to register). As with any loan, careful consideration should be made in determining amounts to be borrowed, as the loan must be repaid.

The interest rates on Federal Direct PLUS loans made on or after July 1, 2016 have a fixed rate based on an index rate (10-Year U.S. Treasury Note Index) plus a 4.6% add-on. For PLUS loans disbursed between 7/1/18 and 6/30/19 the interest rate fixed for the life of the loan is 7.60%. Each year new loans will have a fixed interest rate dependent on the prevailing index rate. The Federal PLUS loan has an interest rate cap of 10.50%. For more information on the terms of the Federal Direct Parent PLUS Loan program and directions to apply, visit our website.

- The Tulane Installment Payment Program (TIPP) is a monthly payment plan that allows students/parents to spread institutional expenses over a number of months, without an interest charge offered through the Tulane Accounts Receivable Office. For more information visit <https://studentaccounts.tulane.edu/content/tulane-installment-prepayment-plan>

- Alternative/Private Loans are designed to assist students and their families who either are not eligible for federal aid or who need additional education financing and choose not to apply for a full Federal Direct PLUS Loan up to the cost of attendance less other financial aid. Loan approval is generally based on creditworthiness and ability to repay. Alternative Loans are available to students who are enrolled and pursuing a degree program at Tulane. As with any loan, careful consideration should be made in determining amounts to be borrowed, as the loan must be repaid. A student or parent can borrow an alternative loan up to the Cost of Attendance minus all other aid. The student should apply directly with the lender. Links for a few alternative loan programs which have been reviewed by our financial aid staff may be found on our website.

- State Supplemental Loans are available in a number of states including Alaska, Illinois, Massachusetts, Minnesota, and Pennsylvania. No needs test is required. Parents are the preferred borrowers but some states allow a student to borrow, usually with a co-signer. A credit evaluation usually is required. Applicants and students must be United States citizens or permanent residents, and students must enroll at least half-time. For more details, contact the guaranty authority for your state. (It is quite possible that other states not listed above have or will be establishing supplemental loan programs.) The Tulane Financial Aid Office can provide the addresses and phone numbers of these agencies.

- The short-term charitable remainder trust offers parents and grandparents the opportunity to establish a trust fund that will help defray college expenses and also make a substantial gift to Tulane. A short-term charitable remainder trust is created and funded with a donation of cash or appreciated stock. The student is named beneficiary of the trust, and Tulane receives the principal at the end of the term. Income tax savings for the donor can make this an attractive plan. Further information may be obtained from the Office of Gift Planning at 800.999.0181.

- Tulane Tuition Prepayment Plan allows parents or students to prepay future years' tuition at current rates. The program is administered by the Treasurer's Office. Prepayments are separately invested and earnings accrue to the fund to offset tuition increases. Student accounts are charged and credited with each semester's cost of tuition. The program is available for a minimum of two years and a maximum of four years. The program covers basic tuition charges and the Academic Service Fee. It may not be used for student activity fees, Reily Center Fee, room, board, or other charges. Students receiving any Tulane controlled financial aid scholarships are not eligible for this program. IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT: August 15, 2019 is the deadline for initiating participation in this program, as the Tulane Tuition Prepayment Plan will cease to exist after this date.

- Job Location and Development is a Tulane referral service that helps students, regardless of their financial need, find employment off campus in the metropolitan New Orleans area. Students work an average of 12 hours a week and earn approximately $2,500 per academic year. While jobs relating to a student's academic interest are possible, most placements are in the areas of hotel administration, sales, food management, and clerical work. For more information, contact Tulane's Student Employment Office at 504.865.5280.

- Outside educational assistance is available from many business and industrial firms, labor and fraternal organizations, and other groups for applicants meeting certain qualifications, for employees or members, or for their children. These sources can be used to supplement a financial aid package, or to reduce the self-help (loan or employment) portion of a financial aid package. We recommend that you look into the possibility of such assistance. Local public libraries and high school guidance offices often have publications listing aid opportunities. You will also find excellent information including a free scholarship search online at <http://www.fastweb.org>.

Can I apply for need-based aid once I am enrolled at Tulane?

If you do not apply for aid as an entering freshman, you still can apply later for your sophomore, junior, and senior years. Or, if you apply but do not receive aid as a freshman, you can ask to be considered again in the following years. Current students applying for need based aid should follow the regular application process.

What financial aid is available if I attend summer school at Tulane?

Tulane feels an obligation to reserve its limited need-based Tulane Scholarship and grant funds for eligible students who enroll full-time during the regular academic year. Therefore, this type of assistance is not available for summer enrollment.

Students who will enroll at least half-time and have not already borrowed the maximum allowed for the academic year may apply for Federal Direct Loan funds. Alternative and Federal Parent PLUS Loans may be available. Federal Pell Grant is available for eligible students.

Summer need for financial aid must be tied to an academic year. You must have applied for, and be determined eligible for, aid for either the prior or subsequent academic year at Tulane to be eligible for summer aid. Which year is applicable will depend on your summer enrollment status and/or the type of aid for which you apply. Additional details, including deadline information and an application, are contained in Tulane's Summer Addendum, available in the Financial Aid Office in late spring.

Can my loan payments be consolidated?

Borrowers of student loans from federal programs may consolidate those loans if they are in a grace period preceding repayment or are in repayment. The interest rate is equal to the weighted average of the interest rates on the loans consolidated, rounded up to the nearest eighth of a percent. Additional details are available from the Financial Aid Office.

For the latest information on all areas of financial aid at Tulane see the Tulane University Financial Aid Office website at http://tulane.edu/financialaid/ .

APPENDIX

CONSUMER INFORMATION FOR FEDERAL STUDENT FINANCIAL AID RECIPIENTS

Information about academic programs, accreditation, facilities, faculty, retention, and number of students completing programs may be obtained from publications available from your dean's office, as well as from staff members in these offices. For career planning and opportunities, contact the Director of Placement. Disabled students should contact the Office of Disability Services. The main university telephone number is (504) 865-5000.

The criteria for selecting recipients for federal funds under university control and for determining the amount of awards is as follows. In general, blocks of funds are allocated to each graduate/professional division. Award amounts are set to attempt to provide a reasonable level of help to the majority of students expected to apply. Awards are then made until the block of funds has been committed. Further information about selection and awarding can be obtained from the University Financial Aid Office counselors.

STATE SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAMS

A number of states award scholarships to residents who meet their specific requirements. Since a few of these states will allow recipients to use their state grants at schools located in other states, we would encourage all students to apply. Tulane's Financial Aid Office can provide the names and addresses of the state agencies you may contact for more information.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION ON THE FEDERAL VERIFICATION PROCEDURE

As stated in this brochure, some applicants are selected by the federal processor for verification of information submitted on financial aid applications. If you have been selected for verification, you will be notified by mail and/or e-mail. In most cases the documents used to verify information are the prior-prior year's IRS tax transcripts and a Verification Worksheet; additional documents may be requested depending upon the information to be verified. Applicants are asked to submit the requested information to the Financial Aid Office within two weeks. For incoming students, no loans will be certified and no aid will be credited until the verification process is complete. Verification remaining incomplete past the financial aid processing deadline (four weeks before the end of the academic term for which aid is intended or the student's last date of attendance, whichever comes first) may prevent a student from receiving aid. For returning students, the financial aid application is considered incomplete until verification is completed and no aid offer will be made until verification is complete. If your aid offer must be adjusted because of information submitted as part of the verification process, you will be notified through a revised Financial Aid Notification letter and/or electronic package. If you are eligible for a Federal Pell Grant and corrections must be made as a result of verification, corrections will be submitted by Tulane to the federal processor. Aid is offered on a funds-available basis, and in order to allow for processing time, we will not be able to consider applications received within four weeks of the semester's end or after the student's last date of attendance, whichever comes first.

FEDERAL AID DEADLINES AND REVISIONS

At least six weeks before the end of the Tulane semester for which financial aid is intended, you must apply for federal aid. This Tulane deadline is set to allow time for the financial aid office to package your aid so that you might meet the Tulane federal aid acceptance deadline (at least a month before the end of the semester for which it is offered or your withdrawal date, whichever comes first). We cannot process federal aid for a semester in which you are no longer attending and for which you have not applied for aid.

Receipt of any non-federal aid must be included when determining or re-determining your eligibility for federal aid. If you withdraw, do not attend, or earn no passing grade during a semester, your aid may be retroactively adjusted as per federal regulations. Disbursement and retention of your federal aid offer is contingent on your meeting: 1) Satisfactory Academic Progress standards toward your degree as defined by Tulane policy and 2) all other federal aid eligibility requirements.

A student cannot receive federal funds from Tulane while attending another school. It is the students' responsibility to inform Tulane if enrolled at another University.

FEDERAL SATISFACTORY ACADEMIC PROGRESS (SAP) POLICY

Students receiving Federal student financial aid must maintain Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) at Tulane in order to remain eligible for Federal aid consideration. All students who receive federal financial aid are expected to complete a minimum number of credit hours and maintain a minimum grade point average each semester as demonstration that they are making satisfactory academic progress. The Financial Aid Office evaluates SAP after the completion of each semester (Fall, Spring, and/or Summer). Federal regulations require that the standards applied to students receiving financial aid also apply during periods when a student is not receiving federal financial aid. All semesters of enrollment must be considered in SAP (even summer, and even when a student is not receiving federal financial aid).

Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) tests three components:

1. A qualitative component: grade point average and/or academic standing
2. An incremental quantitative component: completion rate of credit hours earned versus attempted
3. An overall quantitative component: maximum time for the completion of a student's academic program

Evaluation Criteria

Courses with grades of "W" (withdrawn), "I" (incomplete), "WF" (withdrawn with failure), "UW" (unofficial withdrawal), "U" (unsatisfactory), "XX" (ungraded), and/or "F" (failed) are counted as courses attempted but not earned and count toward the maximum time frame. Transfer credit hours (accepted for the student's academic program or degree) are counted as credit hours attempted when measuring the maximum time frame to complete the degree or certificate program and establishing benchmark points for the qualitative standard, but do not impact the grade point average tested. When a student commences enrollment and yet earns zero credit hours (including cases where the Tulane Financial Aid Office is able to identify that attempted hours have been removed after the commencement of the semester from the student's academic transcript), the student will be identified as having attempted hours contained in the semester.

Guidelines for repeated coursework, if allowed, remedial coursework, if required, and/or English as a Second Language (ESL) coursework, if offered, are specified in the catalog of each academic division. Satisfactory Academic Progress status will include repeated, remedial, and ESL coursework, unless determined otherwise by the Tulane Satisfactory Academic Progress Appeals Committee. Courses graded solely on a Pass/Fail basis that are accepted toward the academic program are included when measuring academic progress. Audited courses count as unearned credit hours in the evaluation of the qualitative and quantitative standards. Both qualitative and quantitative standards begin anew for students switching academic levels (such as seeking a graduate or professional degree after completing an undergraduate degree). Dissertation, dissertation research, and practicum courses which are recognized by Tulane as being "full-time" status are counted as enrollment equivalent of a nine-credit hour course.

The Tulane Financial Aid Office will NOT automatically adjust a student's Satisfactory Academic Progress status when grades are changed or finally reported, but rather ONLY upon request from the student. In such cases, grades must be reflected on Tulane's student records system prior to a review of a student's status. For any grade change (for example, a prior grade of "I" incomplete or "XX" ungraded that has now been assigned a traditional letter grade), a student is responsible for notifying the Tulane Financial Aid Office of such a change and requesting a review of their Satisfactory Academic Progress evaluation. Note that such a review is not considered an appeal, and may not result in eligibility for federal student aid (for example, if a processing deadline has passed).

Three SAP Standards

1. Qualitative Grade Point Average and Academic Standing:

Students academically dismissed from their academic program are automatically recognized as failing to meet Tulane's Satisfactory Academic Progress standards and are no longer recognized as pursuing a credential eligible for financial aid. A GPA is not calculated for the MD program, and a null or zero GPA for an MD student is acceptable. Otherwise, as a student progresses through their academic program, his or her cumulative GPA must meet the following benchmarks:

- If aggregate attempted and transferred credit hours is less than 30, and the midpoint of the academic program has not yet been reached, then the cumulative GPA must be at least 1.75;
- If aggregate attempted and transferred credit hours is greater than 30 and less than 48, and the midpoint of the academic program has not yet been reached, then the cumulative GPA must be at least 1.85;
- If aggregate attempted and transferred credit hours is 48 or more (or the midpoint of the academic program has been reached), then the cumulative GPA must be at least 2.00. A student's cumulative grade point average (GPA) must be at least 2.00 (or the equivalent) at the midpoint of their academic program. The midpoint of an academic program is defined as 48 credit hours OR one-half of the necessary completed credit hours as stipulated in the catalog of the respective academic division, whichever is less. Every attempted and transferred credit hour counts towards the midpoint measurement.

2. Quantitative Completion Rate:

A student must successfully earn at least two-thirds of attempted credit hours overall; in addition, a student who enrolled must earn more than zero hours for a semester which contains attempted hours (or contained hours identified as having been attempted).

3. Quantitative Maximum Time Frame:

A student's maximum time frame for completion of their academic program must not exceed 150% of the primary program length specified in the catalog of each academic division. This means that a student's attempted and transferred credit hours cannot exceed 150% of the credit hours necessary for completion of their primary degree or certificate. The maximum time frame is not increased for dual-degree or combined degree candidates, but rather is always based on the program length associated with a student's primary academic program (however, a student may appeal SAP suspension based on their pursuing dual-degree or combined degrees).

Automatic Warning Semester

Students who fail to meet one or more of the requirements for Satisfactory Academic Progress will be notified through the Tulane University Gibson Online student self-service portal and allowed one automatic Warning Semester associated with their next semester of enrollment to restore their satisfactory academic progress standing unless they have been academically dismissed. During the Warning Semester a student will be awarded Federal financial aid for which they have applied and are otherwise eligible. A student is not allowed to receive consecutive Warning Semesters of Federal aid. A Warning Semester assignment is not contingent on the student's application for federal student aid.

Appeal for Probationary Semester*

Students who fail to meet one or more of the requirements for Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) at the conclusion of their Warning Semester are considered to be in a SAP suspension status, under which Federal student aid eligibility is lost. A student who is denied Federal aid because of a failure to meet SAP standards after the Warning Semester has concluded may appeal this determination to the Satisfactory Academic Progress Appeals Committee of the Financial Aid Office by completing a Satisfactory Academic Progress Suspension Appeal Form.* An appeal must be based on significant mitigating circumstances that seriously impacted academic performance (for example, serious illness or injury of the student, or death of a relative). In the SAP Appeal, a student is expected to demonstrate an understanding of what SAP measure/s were failed and what has changed that will allow the student to meet SAP at the next SAP evaluation. Please note that merely filing a SAP appeal does NOT guarantee continued eligibility for Federal aid, as an appeal may be denied.

If an appeal for a probationary semester is denied by the Committee, the student will be notified and the decision is final for that semester. The student may re-establish eligibility to be considered for federal aid for a subsequent semester by taking action that brings him or her into compliance with the qualitative and quantitative components of Tulane's SAP standard. Subsequent appeals will be automatically denied until the student has earned at least six more Tulane GPA/quality hours than the total earned when the prior SAP Appeal was denied by the Committee.

If a student's appeal is approved by the Committee, the student will be notified and given a probationary semester. For the probationary semester, the student will be considered academically eligible for federal aid for which the student has applied and is otherwise eligible.

Once a probationary semester has concluded, the student may re-establish eligibility to be considered for federal aid for their next semester of enrollment ONLY by either 1) taking action that brings him or her into compliance with the qualitative and quantitative components of Tulane's SAP standard OR 2) demonstrating in a timely fashion the meeting of the specific academic plan and standards for a Probationary Semester as established by the Appeals Committee.

A student who has met neither of the above conditions may appeal the determination of SAP suspension to the Satisfactory Academic Progress Appeals Committee, but such an appeal will be automatically denied until the student has earned at least six more Tulane GPA/quality hours than the total earned by the conclusion of the probationary semester.*

In some cases, a SAP appeal will be denied automatically without going to the SAP Appeal Committee. For example, a SAP appeal must be completed by the deadline; otherwise, the appeal will be automatically denied. The deadline for submission of a SAP appeal to the student's Tulane Financial Aid Office is by 5PM on the Tulane Registrar's published "last day for 25% tuition refund" date for the specific semester with which the appeal is associated. Even a timely SAP appeal for academic dismissal will be automatically denied unless documentation of a reversal of the academic dismissal is provided.*

Notification of the Committee's decision should take place within ten business days of the beginning of the semester for which appeal is made, or ten business days from the receipt of the appeal in the Tulane University Financial Aid Office, whichever is later.*

MEDICAL WITHDRAWAL AND FINANCIAL AID

Upon taking a medical withdrawal, it is important that undergraduate students understand the impact this will have on their current and future financial aid. The first question to ask is "What type of aid do I have?"

- Federal aid – Current federal aid may need adjustment to reflect the percentage of aid earned for the semester. See "Withdrawals and Return of Title IV Federal Student Aid" for details. (Generally, this is the percentage of the semester attended before withdrawal, but attendance of more than 60 percent requires no adjustment.) Students must meet Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) guidelines for their division and successfully apply for federal financial aid to continue to receive federal financial aid. The SAP guidelines can be found in the Financial Aid Sourcebook, or on our website at <http://tulane.edu/financialaid/steps/sap.cfm>. Students are allowed one probationary semester of federal aid once they are not meeting SAP guidelines. If a student has received a probationary semester and has not met the SAP guidelines, an appeal process is available.
- Federal aid appeals – The Appeals committee will consider appeals for students planning to return in the fall semester if these appeals are submitted by June 1. Appeals for students planning to return in the spring semester must be submitted by November 1, and appeals for students returning in the summer semester (federal aid only) must be submitted by April 1.
- Tulane need-based scholarship – If tuition is adjusted upon withdrawal, scholarship will need to be prorated for the same semester. In addition to demonstrating financial need, students must maintain full-time enrollment and meet a GPA requirement of at least 2.300 to continue to receive need-based scholarship. A student who fails to meet both of the academic requirements is granted one conditional semester of scholarship, and may, if certain conditions are met during that semester, receive a second conditional semester. Information on this may be found in the Financial Aid Sourcebook or on our website at <http://tulane.edu/financialaid/grants/needbased.cfm>.
- Tulane Merit Scholarship – If tuition is adjusted upon withdrawal, scholarship will need to be prorated for the same semester. Students must maintain full-time enrollment and meet the required GPA for their scholarship in order to continue receiving the scholarship. When a student takes a medical withdrawal, upon their first return, the student is offered a probationary semester of merit scholarship as long as they meet the conditions of the Conditional Merit Scholarship provisions (see section further below). The student should also meet with their Academic Advisor and seek treatment through the health services at the University when appropriate. If a student is not meeting merit scholarship renewal requirements after having the opportunity for a probationary semester of scholarship, they will be notified at the end of the period that the scholarship has been lost and an appeal process is available to the student at that time.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR STUDENT EMPLOYMENT THROUGH FEDERAL WORK STUDY

Students who are offered Federal Work Study may obtain a position through www.collegecentral.com/tulane or consultation with the Tulane Student Employment Office: SEHR@Tulane.edu. Opportunities for off-campus work-study are available, please visit StudentEmployment.Tulane.edu for more information. Students are encouraged to work no more than 20 hours per week, across all student positions. Students may not work during scheduled class time. Work schedules are arranged between the student and his/her supervisor and vary based off of business needs. Hourly pay rates are set at the departmental level but must abide by federal minimum wage policies. All work-study students are paid hourly; funds are electronically deposited on a biweekly basis into the student's chosen bank account (NOT the student's Tulane Accounts Receivable student account). Students must notify their employers if they will be absent from work or must resign from a job. Students should report any employment problems to the Student Employment Office (504) 247-1700. A student may be dismissed because of unsatisfactory job performance. Falsifying a time report constitutes grounds for immediate dismissal. A student who is dismissed may appeal to the Student Employment Office.

LOAN REPAYMENT PROVISIONS

Borrowers should log into The National Student Loan Data System <https://nslds.ed.gov> to review their federal loan details on record, including the identity of assigned servicers. The National Student Loan Data System (NSLDS) is the U.S. Department of Education's (ED's) central database for student aid. NSLDS receives data from schools, guaranty agencies, the Direct Loan program, and other Department of ED programs. NSLDS Student Access provides a centralized, integrated view of Title IV loans and grants so that recipients of Title IV Aid can access and inquire about their Title IV loans and/or grant data. If you have trouble making your education loan payments, contact immediately the organization that services your loan. You might easily qualify for a forbearance, and in other cases a deferment or other form of payment relief. It's important to take action before you are charged late fees or go into default! Monthly payments vary on Federal Direct Loans and are based on the total amount borrowed. Personalized loan repayment calculators may be viewed online at the federal website www.studentloans.gov (including INCOME-DRIVEN REPAYMENT PLANS) and generic calculators on websites such as www.finaid.org. The minimum monthly payment amount is generally $50 per loan. The borrower should contact the lender (in many cases, the U.S. Department of Education is the lender, and the servicer assigned to the loan by the Department should be contacted) for specific repayment information available for their loans.

Students should contact the Tulane Student Loan office at 504-865-5366 (or their servicer UAS) to discuss monthly payments on Federal Perkins loans. The minimum quarterly payment is $90. The Student Loan Office is located in room 105 of Phelps building.

WITHDRAWALS AND RETURN OF TITLE IV FEDERAL STUDENT FINANCIAL AID FUNDS POLICY

When a student withdraws, any tuition, housing or meal plan "refund" (CREDITED to the student) is NOT directly related to the determination of whether financial aid funds must be "refunded" to the source (and CHARGED to the student).

A student must officially withdraw from the university to obtain a refund of tuition. Failure to attend does not constitute an official withdrawal. The student must contact his or her academic Dean's Office to provide official notification of intent to withdraw. To obtain a remission of tuition, the student must complete drop/add form(s) with the dean of the college in which he/she is enrolled. Tulane's tuition refund policy for a typical semester (68-70 class days) is prepared by the Registrar. Please consult the academic calendar for specific dates. Fees are not refundable.

Students considering a full withdrawal should consult with a financial aid counselor to discuss the impact of withdrawal on financial aid funding.

Return of Title IV Federal Student Financial Aids Funds Policy

Federal aid processed for a student who never attends class is unearned and must be cancelled. Similarly, when a recipient of federal financial aid funds withdraws from the university during a period of enrollment (i.e. semester) in which the recipient began attendance, the institution must determine the amount of federal loan or grant assistance that the student earned as of the student's withdrawal date. The withdrawal may be official or unofficial. Unofficial withdrawal status is assigned (for purposes of the return of federal financial aid funds) to students who earn no passing grade for the period of enrollment and whose official withdrawal was not processed during the period of enrollment.

The percentage of aid that has been earned by the student is equal to the percentage of the semester that the student completed as of the student's withdrawal date. If this date occurs after the completion of 60% of the semester, the student is considered to have earned 100% of the federal grant and/or loan assistance for the semester. Please note that in cases where a student ceases attendance without providing official notification to the university of his or her withdrawal from the university, (the student must contact his or her academic Dean's Office to do this) the institution must consider the midpoint of the semester as the official date of withdrawal.

If the total amount of federal grant or loan assistance, or both, that the student earned is less than the amount of federal grant or loan assistance that was disbursed to the student or on behalf of the student in the case of a PLUS loan, the difference between these amounts must be returned to the federal aid programs within 45 days of the date the financial aid office was made aware of the withdrawal. The amounts of unearned federal aid must be returned regardless of whether the student is eligible to receive a refund of a portion of university fees, such as tuition, fees, or room and board fees.

The amount to be returned to the federal student financial aid accounts will be returned to the programs from which the student received aid up to the amount of aid disbursed in the following priority order: Federal Graduate PLUS loans, Unsubsidized Federal Direct loans, Subsidized Federal Direct loans, Federal PLUS loans received on behalf of the student, Federal Pell Grants, Federal SEOG grants, and LEAP grants.

If the total amount of federal grant or loan assistance, or both, that the student earned is greater than the total amount of federal grant and/or loan assistance that was disbursed to the student or on behalf of the student as of the date of the institution's determination that the student withdrew, the difference between these amounts must be treated as a post-withdrawal disbursement. If federal loan funds are used to credit a post-withdrawal disbursement, the university must provide the student, or the parent in the case of a PLUS loan, the opportunity to cancel all or a portion of the post-withdrawal disbursement. *The university has 30 days to provide this notice to the student or parent. The student or parent must respond to the notice within 14 days of the date the institution sent the notification. If the student or parent does not respond, the university cannot make a post-withdrawal disbursement of federal loan funds.

After determining the return of funds to federal student financial aid, any amounts of institutional tuition or room and board refunds in excess of the amount of aid returned to the federal aid accounts will be returned to the Tulane aid accounts on a pro-rated basis up to the amount of aid disbursed. Any remaining amounts of institutional refund left over are then returned to the student and his/her family.

Federal Work-Study funds are not included in the Return of Federal Title IV Funds formula because these funds were received for work performed.

STUDY ABROAD PROGRAMS

A student who is participating in a study abroad program offered by Tulane (and considered enrolled at Tulane) is eligible to be considered for federal student financial assistance by Tulane. If the program is held for a fall or spring semester, the student is eligible to be considered for Tulane scholarship (except any scholarship specifically awarded to offset New Orleans on-campus room costs or on-campus meal plans).

ACADEMIC REQUIREMENTS POLICY FOR RETAINING NEED-BASED TULANE SCHOLARSHIP AND/OR NOLA

Undergraduate students receiving need-based Tulane Scholarship (including Tulane's NOLA Scholarship) must maintain an overall cumulative grade point average of 2.300 on a full-time course load (defined as completing a minimum of 12 credit hours each semester) in a full-time division (i.e.; Newcomb-Tulane College, School of Liberal Arts, Business School, School of Science and Engineering, School of Architecture, School of Public Health), be billed at the standard rate and continue to demonstrate financial need to retain their scholarships. The amount of scholarship is determined each year by taking into account prevailing cost of attendance, level of financial need, level of academic merit, and availability of funding. Students will be responsible for monitoring their academic performance through the normal University procedures, and for making themselves aware of the impact of performance on the retention of scholarship.

Conditional Year Need-Based Scholarship

A student who is eligible for need-based Tulane Scholarship may be awarded scholarship for one conditional year if the student's cumulative GPA falls below 2.300 at the end of any academic year or if the student drops to less than full-time during either semester. During the conditional year, the first semester portion of the student's scholarship will be credited, but the second semester portion will be credited only if the student meets certain conditions (see Conditions for Crediting Spring Scholarship on this sheet). Lists of students who are conditioned will be sent to the Deans of the undergraduate divisions. Students who apply late for renewal of scholarship aid for the upcoming year or who complete their applications late will be held responsible for meeting all of the deadlines and conditions of this policy.

During the conditional year, students will be encouraged to seek assistance from various resources offered by Tulane (such as Academic Advising and/or University Health Services), if it seems appropriate. Students are urged to take advantage of any sources of assistance offered by the University.

Spring Semester Portion of Conditional Need-Based Scholarship

- (1) Second semester (in most cases this will be the spring semester) scholarship will be credited for students who achieve a 2.300 GPA for the fall semester provided they have also enrolled full-time for both the conditional year semesters (generally for the fall and spring semesters).
- (2) Second semester (in most cases this will be the spring semester) scholarship will be canceled and NOT credited for students who did not achieve a 2.300 GPA for the fall semester and/or who did not enroll at a full-time status for the fall semester.

Loss of Scholarship at the End of a Conditional Year

If a student does not earn a 2.300 cumulative grade point average and a full load (at least 12 credit hours) for the fall and spring semesters of the conditional year, he/she will not be awarded need-based Tulane Scholarship for the next academic year. Students will be informed of this decision by mail and/or e-mail. A student who loses scholarship at the conclusion of a spring semester cannot automatically regain scholarship eligibility if their cumulative GPA is at least 2.300 at the end of the following summer: the student must successfully submit a timely appeal. A student may reapply for need-based Tulane Scholarship after at least one academic year without need-based Tulane Scholarship if the student subsequently achieves an overall cumulative GPA of 2.300 in a full-time program while completing 12 hours or more each semester.

Appeal Procedure for the Loss of need-based Tulane Scholarship

A student may appeal loss of scholarship to the Financial Aid Office. The basis of the appeal must be extraordinary circumstances that were beyond the student's control during the conditional year, such as a serious, extended physical or mental condition. On appeal a student must present documentation that the student's academic performance was affected during the conditional year by a serious physical or mental condition. Documentation from an academic advisor or from a private physician (channeled through University Health Service) must attest that the physical or mental problems were beyond the student's control during the conditional year and that the student has now made significant progress in addressing these problems and can be reasonably expected to achieve the required academic standing if another year of scholarship is granted.

An appeal may or may not be granted. If the appeal is granted, financial aid for the student will be recalculated and the student will be notified by mail and/or e-mail of his/her award. An award of Tulane need-based scholarship may again be conditioned upon certain requirements the student must meet. If the appeal is not granted, the student may reapply for scholarship aid after at least one academic year without Tulane Need-Based Scholarship if the student has achieved an overall cumulative GPA of 2.300 with a minimum of 12 hours completed each semester. At that time, an award of Tulane need-based scholarship may be made. This award may be conditioned upon certain requirements the student must meet.

Federal Student Financial Aid After the Loss of Tulane Need-Based Scholarship at the End of a Conditional Year

The student may retain federal student financial aid depending upon financial need, meeting federal eligibility requirements, including satisfactory academic progress requirements, and availability of funds.

One Conditional Year Limitation

If a student who successfully completed one conditional year and retained need-based Tulane Scholarship for the following year falls below a 2.300 GPA and/or completes fewer than 12 hours a semester for any subsequent academic year, the student will not be given another conditional year and will not be offered Tulane need-based scholarship. Note: A student loses the opportunity to complete a conditional year if the conditional year is not completed within two academic years after the student first fell below the 2.300 GPA standards.

Deadline for Resolving Grade Issues

Any "incomplete" grades or disputed grades must be resolved within six weeks of the start of the next semester in order to either release a student from the requirement of completing a conditional year or to retain need-based Tulane Scholarship after completing a conditional year. A decision to require a student to complete a conditional year or to deny scholarship at the end of a conditional year is made at the conclusion of that academic year based on the student's GPA and number of enrolled hours. This decision will not be affected if a course is repeated after either of the above determinations is made.

Notices to Parents of Dependent Students

The University Financial Aid Office will inform parents of dependent students of decisions that will affect the student's financial circumstances, such as scholarship conditioned on the student meeting certain requirements or loss of scholarship because of the student's failure to meet specified requirements, only as permitted by law.

ACADEMIC REQUIREMENTS POLICY FOR RETAINING TULANE MERIT SCHOLARSHIP

Undergraduate students receiving a Tulane Merit Scholarship must maintain minimum academic standards (refer to specific merit scholarship academic retention criteria detailed below) on a full-time course load (defined as completing a minimum of 12 credit hours each semester) in a full-time division (i.e.; Newcomb-Tulane College, School of Liberal Arts, Business School, School of Science and Engineering, School of Architecture, School of Public Health) being billed at the standard undergraduate rate and continue to successfully meet all the terms and conditions applicable for the retention of their merit scholarships. Students will be responsible for monitoring their academic performance through the normal University procedures, and for making themselves aware of the impact of performance on the retention of scholarship.

Conditional Merit Scholarship

A student initially failing to meet the minimum academic standards required for retention of their merit scholarship may apply for a conditional probationary semester to continue to receive their merit scholarship and will receive notification of such from the Tulane University Office of Financial Aid. Lists of students who are eligible to apply for a conditional semester will be sent to Academic Advising and may be sent to the Deans of the undergraduate divisions. Note: A student loses the opportunity to receive or apply for a conditional probationary semester if the semester is not completed within two academic years after the student first falls the specific academic standards for retention of their specific merit scholarship, or the student's latest approved conditional probationary semester, whichever is last.

To apply for approval of a probationary semester, the student must, before or during the semester for which conditional probationary approval is sought, PRIOR TO the "Last Day to Drop" for that semester (as defined and published by the University's Registrar's Office), meet with the designated individual at the Tulane Academic Advising Office to establish an academic plan and/or strategy for academic improvement.

If the application is approved, and the student is otherwise eligible, the student will receive merit scholarship for the probationary semester.

Continuation merit scholarship receipt beyond an approved conditional probationary semester requires the successful completion of the following conditions:

- At the conclusion of the conditional probationary semester, the student's official academic records must reflect that the student started and successfully completed a full-load of coursework (defined as enrolled for a minimum of 12 credit hours) during that semester AND
- At the conclusion of the conditional probationary semester, the student's official academic records must reflect that the student obtained at least the minimum grade point average (GPA) required for the merit scholarship during that semester and/or achieved a minimum cumulative GPA that meets or exceeds the specific minimum standard required for merit scholarship retention. Example: If the merit scholarship's minimum GPA requirement is 2.70, then at the end of the conditional probationary semester a student must have successfully completed a full-time level of coursework earning a GPA of 2.70 or higher during that semester and/or bring their cumulative GPA to 2.70 or higher AND
- If the cumulative GPA is not at least the minimum standard required for merit scholarship retention, the student has successfully applied for (see description earlier in this section) and received approval for another probationary semester of scholarship. The student must once again meet all of the aforementioned conditions of a "conditional probationary" semester during the subsequent semester (and all further subsequent semesters) until ultimately graduating and/or achieving a cumulative GPA that meets or exceeds the scholarship's minimum academic standards.

If all of the above conditions are successfully met, then the student will receive, as long as they are otherwise eligible, their merit scholarship for the subsequent fall or spring semester following the conditional probationary semester.

Scholarship will be canceled and NOT credited for students failing to meet the specified conditions at the conclusion of their conditional probationary semester and those students will lose their merit scholarship for all subsequent semesters of Tulane enrollment. Student who lose their merit scholarship are allowed to appeal the loss of their scholarship by filing an appeal which includes providing all applicable documentation to fully explain their situation and justifying why an appeal is warranted. Students will be informed by e-mail and/or mail of a decision to cancel spring scholarship.

Appeal Procedure for Loss of Tulane Merit Scholarship

Students failing to meet the conditions of their conditional probationary semester and therefore wishing to appeal the loss of their merit scholarship must submit a written request including their name, Tulane ID, the title of their scholarship, and reasons for the appeal. Generally a successful appeal will include supporting documentation from a professional showing that the student's academic performance during the conditional probationary semester was affected by a serious physical and/or mental condition. Documentation from the Student Health Center or from a private physician (channeled through University Health Services) must attest that the physical or mental problems were beyond the student's control, that the student has made significant progress in addressing their problems, and that the student can be reasonably expected to achieve the required academic standing if another semester of scholarship is granted.

Appeals must be submitted to the Financial Aid Office no later than 30 days after the end of the conditional probationary semester.

The Financial Aid Appeals Committee chairperson will review the appeals and may request additional information if necessary before presenting the appeal to the committee. The appeal will then be reviewed by the entire committee. The committee's decision is final with no additional appeal possible. Students will receive a written response within two weeks from the date the appeal is reviewed.

Financial Aid Appeals Committee

The Financial Aid Appeals Committee consists of the Assistant Vice President of Financial Aid, the Associate Director of Financial Aid, the Vice President of Student Affairs, representatives from each of the full-time undergraduate divisions, and a Student Health Center representative. There are a total of at least eight voting members on the committee with the Associate Director of Financial Aid serving as the official chairperson. The chairperson is the only non-voting member of the committee.

Federal Student Financial Aid After Loss of Tulane Merit Scholarship at End of Conditional Year

The student may retain federal student financial aid (some dependent upon student's federal financial need) if meeting all federal eligibility requirements, including satisfactory academic progress requirements, and availability of funds.

Deadline for Resolving Grade Issues

Any "incomplete" grades or disputed grades must be resolved within six weeks of the start of the next semester in order to either release a student from the requirement of completing a conditional year or to retain Tulane scholarship after completing a conditional year. A decision to require a student to complete a conditional year or to deny scholarship at the end of a conditional year is made at the conclusion of that academic year based on the student's GPA and number of enrolled hours. This decision will not be affected if a course is repeated after either of the above determinations is made.

Notices to Parents of Dependent Students

The University Financial Aid Office will inform parents of dependent students of decisions that will affect the student's financial circumstances, such as scholarship conditioned on the student meeting certain requirements or loss of scholarship because of the student's failure to meet specified requirements, only as permitted by law.
